

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A time information acquisition channel setting screen includes a channel number display window, a scan state display window and a command window. A channel time information of each channel as well
5 as channel numbers of each channel are displayed in the channel number display window. While viewing the channel numbers and the channel time information, a viewer operates a cursor and selects a channel for updating internal time information.